

Announcement of a Faculty Opening at the Johannes Kepler University Linz for a Professor for Catalysis in compliance with the Austrian Universities Act of 2002, §94 para. 2 subpara. 1 UG 2002)

The Faculty of Engineering and Natural Sciences at the Johannes Kepler University Linz invites applications for a position of

Professor for Catalysis

to begin immediately. An evaluation will follow after a four-year period.

The successful candidate is expected to represent and further develop teaching and research. See <http://www.jku.at/professuren> for a detailed description of the position online.

Applicants for the position must have a post-doctorate (venia docendi) degree (or comparable post-doctorate qualifications) in the field of Chemistry.

A salary above the minimum amount as stated in the collective agreement will be voluntarily offered. Depending on the current position (present salary) the annual gross salary will be between €70,000 to € 90,000 (minimum salary as stated in the collective agreement plus voluntary additional payments).

JKU wishes to increase the proportion of female faculty and, for this reason, especially welcomes applications from women. If applicants are equally qualified, women will be given preference for this assignment. The university welcomes applications from qualified applicants with physical disabilities. These applications will be given special consideration.

Prospective applicants interested in the position are requested to electronically send a complete application in adherence to the stated criteria in the job profile, together with the requested documentation (current CV, short application, etc.) to the Rector of the Johannes Kepler University Linz (bewerbung@jku.at) by September 15, 2014. If documents cannot be sent electronically, they are to be sent in quintuplet copy (in the original) and should arrive at the Rector's office no later than one week after the end of the application deadline.